

RURAL RENEWAL INITIATIVE

Rural Renewal Symposium October 8-10, 2024

Call for Research Presentations

Researchers, students, rural community members, and stakeholders are invited to participate in the 2024 Rural Renewal Symposium at Lake Murray Lodge in Ardmore, Oklahoma, on October 8 - 10. This interdisciplinary symposium is organized by the Rural Renewal Initiative (link) at Oklahoma State University. The Symposium provides a unique opportunity to share research and connect with faculty, students, and rural community members from across the U.S. and around the world. The symposium is a place to share the latest discoveries, trends, and approaches to rural renewal. This symposium will be held in person at Lake Murray Lodge in Ardmore, Oklahoma. The symposium starts at 1:00 p.m. on October 8 and will conclude at 12:00 p.m. October 10.

We invite you to submit a title and 250-word abstract for a research presentation (oral or poster) to be considered. Any research directly linked to rural people or places is appropriate to submit.

Specific themes of interest include:

- Vulnerability and resilience of rural people and places
- Rural community capitals, e.g., natural capital, built capital, or human capital
- Rural livelihoods
