

RURAL RENEWAL INITIATIVE

Seeking Nominations: Rural Renewal Citizenship Prize

The Oklahoma State University Rural Renewal Initiative inspires, empowers, and coordinates rural renewal research in Oklahoma and beyond. The Rural Renewal Initiative supports interdisciplinary research by funding seed grant projects seeking to improve the lives of people in rural communities and providing them with trained student research scholars to lead community-engaged and participatory research.

The Rural Renewal Initiative will host its annual Rural Renewal Symposium at Quartz Mountain Lodge near Lone Wolf, Oklahoma, November 2-3rd, 2023, to expand and empower its network of collaborating faculty, students, and community leaders. The symposium will feature the work of faculty, students, and other scientists and engineers who have conducted research with, in, or for rural communities. At the symposium, the Rural Renewal Initiative will award the Rural Renewal Citizenship Prize. Nominations are sought for this award to honor a leader who has made an important contribution to the renewal of one or more rural communities in Oklahoma. This Prize recognizes a person who shows true leadership qualities, is an exceptional role model, promotes community welfare, and advocates for community needs. This award seeks to highlight the outstanding rural renewal work done by Oklahoma community members.
